Car-truck collision in early morning fog claims the life of young teacher

A tractor trailer truck, driven by squad members at 7:55 a.m.

Edward Loyd Cheshier, of Route 1, It took rescue personnel from A collision on a fog shrouded highway claimed the life of a young teacher on the way to school last Friday morning. The accident happened about 7:30 a.m. just South of the Basin Baptist Church.

A car driven by Jennifer D. Wright Bowdin, age 22, of 502 Spurling St., Opp, was traveling toward Elba on Highway 189 (Kinston the truck and back against the rear specific points). Chancellor, and equipped to haul live chickens for the ConAgra dressing plant was turning onto this same highway. The truck was entering the road from the East, crossing the northbound lane and heading South. There were no chickens on the truck at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Bowdin's car slammed into the truck and remove her body. Extensive work with the Jaws Of Life was necessary to pry away the distorted automobile parts before the victim could be removed from the late model car.

Mrs. Bowdin was the lone occupant of her vehicle. The truck driver was unburt in the accident. Chancellor, and equipped to haul Elba and Opp and two wreckers over

LETTER TO

The faculty of Elba High School distressed by the adverse publicity which the school and its personnel ive received during the last two weeks. In the spring of 1990, the Elba City School complex was literally destroyed by "the flood". The one week, the school was back i session--tents, busses, armory--bu school none-the-less. For the next two years, a "trailer park" was our school plant. Through rain, mud wind, and sometimes sunshine learning continued. Through all o this, the faculty has remained united in the best interest of all the children of this town. Now two years later, we have noved into a new facility. This has been a most exciting time for the students, the faculty, and the adminisration alike. This excitement has seen blemished by the recent allegas that have disrupted the school rogram. If learning is to take place, he atmosphere must be conducive to instruction, which can take place only if teachers and students feel secure in their person and in their environment. The allegations made at recent Board meetings do not reflect the view, the opinions, or the atti-tudes of the following Elba High School staff and faculty members.

Getting Too Busy!!

Christians should be occupied in the work of the Lord, but not at the expense of personal fellowship with Jesus Christ. In the 10th Chapter of the Gospel of Luke we find a good illustration of this Martha was so will know how much you will know how will know illustration of this. Martha was so will know how much you really love "anxious and troubled about many the Lord. IF we have no time for quiet medita-tion and Spiritual intimacy with Assembly Of God Christ. WE ARE TOO BUSY!

There is a story about a lady who from time to time felt it was necessary to speak with her new cook when he was preparing a meal. But he would usually interrupt by saying. "The sorry, I don't have time to listen now. I'm busy!" Finally she stopped him and said, "Whose work are you doing,?" The answer was obvious, and he was silent. "Well, if you're doing my work," she said, "then please stop long enough to learn how I want it done." I would imagine God often must yearn to say the same to us when we become so occupied in his service that we do not have time to quietly listen to His in structions and get our lives in line with His will.
